You really matter!

With the coronation taking place this Shabbat I thought it would be appropriate to share a few thoughts on the concept of מלכות, sovereignty and leadership. We are currently counting the 49 days between Pesach and Shavuot, the mitzvah of Sefirat Ha'omer. These days are an opportunity for spiritual and emotional growth. A systematic way of working on this is by examining seven 'sefirot' (the last of which is מלכות) during these seven weeks.

The word 'sefirot' comes from the word לספר, to express or communicate. As explained by Rabbi Moshe Cordovero (1522-1570) 'sefirot' are attributes that allow us to ascribe specific qualities to G'd. These attributes are reflected within the human experience, we can think of them as 'soul powers'. The seven 'sefirot' related to middot are Chesed - love; Gevurah — discipline; Tiferet – compassion; Netzach – resilience; Hod – humility; Yesod – bonding, connection; Malchut - sovereignty, leadership.

Malchut refers to the concept of leadership. Even if we do not see ourselves as 'natural' leaders, we all have an inherent part of our soul called Malchut. We all have something unique we can contribute to the world, as we know, no two people are exactly the same. This means that each one of us has a unique role to play. Just as in a symphony, if one note is missed the whole orchestra is compromised, each one of us matters. Malchut is about discovering our own voice, which may have become concealed due to experiences that have sapped our confidence, damaged our self-esteem or caused us to become 'people pleasers'. Malchut is not about showing our power, but about the power of showing up with humility and sensitivity. Moshe the greatest of all leaders was also the most humble of all men. Our mission is to find our own unique voice, cultivate confidence with a sense of purpose and dignity, so that we can contribute to this world. Malchut is both a privilege and a responsibility. If this seems difficult, or abstract, ask a friend what your strengths are and where you can contribute. Take initiative, do something small every day, it could be reaching out to someone who needs a kind word. Anything that is giving is part of this process. Working on Malchut can be challenging and can sometimes mean pushing ourselves beyond our comfort zone. However, just as after 49 days we receive the gift of the Torah (on Shavuot), so too, after we have achieved all we can through our own efforts, we receive a gift from Above. When Hashem sees us putting in the effort to refine ourselves, He gives us the gift of transcending ourselves and achieving that which we could not achieve on our own. Malchut is the last of the sefirot as all the other sefirot are there to be channelled into Malchut, to help us fulfil our role in this world.

The six sefirot also represent the six days of creation. Malchut, the last sefira represents Shabbat, the day of the coronation. We are fortunate to be living in a מלכות של חסד, where we are able to keep Shabbat and where all religions are not only tolerated but respected. For the first time, our own Chief Rabbi and representatives of other faiths will play an active role in the coronation. Just as the sefira of Malchut draws all the other sefirot together, Shabbat absorbs and directs blessing from the whole week. It is the day where we are no longer in a state of 'doing' but in a state of 'being', spending time with family and loved ones in a sacred space. Shabbat is called מקור הברכה, the 'source of all blessing'. May this Shabbat flow with all the blessings we need to fulfil our spiritual and material needs for the coming week. Shabbat Shalom! Nechama Sufrin

Kinloss Presents

The Disputation by Hyam Maccoby

TICKETS WILL BE AVAILABLE SOON

Referred to by Rabbi Lord Jonathan Sacks z''l as 'a powerful reconstruction of one of the most fascinating but ultimately tragic encounters between Jews and Christians in the Middle Ages' The Disputation showcases the dramatic debate of 1263 in the court of Spanish King James I of Aragon, between Nahmanides, a leading Jewish medieval philosopher, kabbalist and commentator and the Dominican friar

(a converted Jew) Pablo Christiani.

The subject of this debate was whether Jesus was the Messiah. A fraught debate ensued with any number of potential and actual complications for the Jews....

Kinloss is putting on The Disputation soon and casting is now underway. We are looking for actors willing to be a local star.

Would you or someone you know like to audition?

If so, please email Sarah Davis at sarah@dramaticsarah.co.uk
