Understanding The Audience – Rabbi Josh Harris

At the beginning of the Parsha, as a response to Moshe's claims about Israel's worsening situation, God sends Moshe to the people and tells him (Exodus 6:6-8): "Therefore say to the children of Israel, I am the Lord, I will free you from the labours of the Egyptians and deliver you from their bondage. I will redeem you with an outstretched arm and through extraordinary chastisements. And I will take you to be My people.... and I will bring you to the land..." In these three verses, Hashem lays out before Moses the entire future plan for the Jewish people until their entrance into the Land of Israel.

Moshe fulfils the commandment and relays Hashem's message to the people. However, instead of receiving applause, he receives a clearly unsympathetic response (6:9): "But when Moses told this to the Israelites, they would not listen to Moses, their spirits crushed by cruel bondage."

Our Rabbis in the Midrash expressed their astonishment at the reaction of the Jewish people to Moshe:

"Is that such a person who receives good news and is not happy? [For example] you will give birth to a child, you will be redeemed from captivity, and is not happy?" (Mechilta d'Rebi Yishmael Bo)

The reaction really is incomprehensible. After all, this should have been the exact news the people were looking for in order to relieve themselves from their crushed spirits. Why, then, did the people refuse to listen to Moses?

As we mentioned earlier, Hashem told Moshe the entire future plan for the people up until the point of their entry into Israel. When Moshe relays this message to the people, he follows God's words with precision – "Moshe told this to the Israelites". However, in the current situation, the people of Israel were not able to comprehend the entire long and complex process. It sounded far and impossible to them amidst their current unbearable situation of soul crushing bondage. It was one thing to comprehend freedom from work, it was another thing to wrap their heads around a full redemption in the land of Israel.

It is clear from the next commandment given by Hashem to Moshe that Hashem only intended for the beginning of the message to be related. In Verse 13, it is written: "So Hashem spoke to both Moshe and Ahron in regard to the Israelites and Pharaoh king of Egypt, instructing them to deliver the Israelites from the land of Egypt." Now, God instructs Moshe to relay only the beginning of the divine plan.

There is a great educational message in this idea. When teaching children or students, it is imperative to understand how they are going to relate to the messages being given over. While the teacher or parent may have full comprehension over the message they want to relay, the student or child may not have the tools to grasp the full extent of the content being taught. We must always take into account the context and individuality of our students and children.

Family Shabbaton - Kinloss Children's Choir (Years 3-6)

During January, the Years 3-6 children services will be learning 'Etz Chaim', with the aim of singing along with the Chazan at the Family Shabbaton (27th Jan), both in the Main Shul and Minyan (roughly 11am/11:15am)

It would be lovely to have as many children as possible join the children's services on Shabbat 6th, 13th and 20th Jan, when they'll be learning the song, so they're ready to join the choir on 27th January.

As well as the incentive of being in the choir, each week your child attends the service in January, they'll be entered in to a raffle prize draw. So if they come for all three weeks, that's three raffle entries! Please email rabbijosh@kinloss.org.uk after each Shabbat to confirm your child's attendance and raffle entry.

If they can't attend for all three weeks, they can practice at home too ...
