Don't Question Opportunities

The greatest 'What if...' dominates our minds as we read through this week's Parsha. We were on the edge of entering into Eretz Yisrael. The journey from the depths of Egypt was now moments away from its glorious conclusion. The people without a land for so long were finally going home. What if? What if this was exactly how it all panned out? Instead, as we know, the sin of the Meraglim (spies) disrupted the perfect ending, creating a ripple effect that we still feel today as we still long for an end to our exile. Much ink has been spilled over where exactly the Meraglim erred. I want to present the approach of the Sefat Emet, the great early Chassidic master of the 19th century, who through his explanation perhaps foreshadowed our return to the land in 1948.

The Sefat Emet beautifully explains that there are two ways to acquire the Land of Israel – either through deservedness, or through historical mandate. There were two ways Hashem's promise to Avraham would be fulfilled. A time would come where we deserve the fulfilment of the promise, or we would reap the benefits of a historical mandate at the time of God's choosing, even if we don't deserve it.

Before the sin of the Golden Calf, we were on track to acquire Eretz Yisrael because we deserved it. We were living up to our name as the descendants of Avraham, Yitzchak and Yaakov, and continuing their example of following Hashem's path. However, after sinning with the Golden Calf, we forfeited our rights to the Land of Israel through deservedness. In the minds of the Meraglim, once they felt we didn't deserve the land through our own merits, they didn't think it would be possible to overcome the challenges we'd be faced with after entering the land. They didn't believe we would merit the Divine intervention that was necessary to acquire the land. Their sin was not seeing the other side of the coin. Their sin was not realising that if Hashem is presenting us with a gift, we don't need to be deserving! If Hashem has decided to fulfil His promise at this time to this generation, our only duty is to grab it with two hands and never look back. In Hashem's masterplan for the world, we might experience steps towards Geula (redemption) yet struggle to understand why we are deserving of it. Our job is not to question our merits, but to make sure we don't miss the opportunity.

The Sefat Emet goes a step further and explains that had the Meraglim passed the test of understanding and internalised that they were receiving Eretz Yisrael because Hashem was fulfilling His promise, they would have reversed the nature of the gift to the level of deserving it. The test that Hashem placed in front of the spies was whether they could shift their mindset. He challenged them to understand that redemption can take place even when it appears we don't deserve it. Had they run after the opportunity, they would have become worthy and deserving in their own right.

Whether as individuals or as a nation, we may sometimes feel like we're not worthy and deserving of the next stage in the Divine masterplan. After all, many greater generations have preceded us who were not beneficiaries of the full redemption. As a nation, our generation have been granted the tremendous gift and opportunity of returning to the Land of Israel and seeing it flourish in every way possible. It's not for us to question our worthiness or determine our reaction to the Land of Israel being presented to us based on how we view our merits towards it. It's not for us to question the process of how the opportunity to return back home presented itself. It is our duty, however, to grab the opportunity and ensure we don't miss our chance. Through doing that, we ourselves can become worthy of the next stage of redemption.

WHAT WE LOST

Understanding what the destruction of the Beit Hamikdash means for us

Join Rabbi Josh on Shiva Assar B'Tammuz, the beginning of the Three Week period of mourning for the Beit Hamikdash, to explore the meaning of what it is we are mourning.

23rd July – 8:15pm

In Conversation with Paul Gross "WHAT YOU SEE FROM HERE, YOU DON'T SEE FROM THERE"

Few outside Israel appreciate the scale of the national trauma caused by the events of 7 October. Israel is not the same country or society as it was on 6 October, and understanding how and why it has changed is critical to understanding why Israeli's view the atrocity – and their country's response – differently to the rest of the world.

TUESDAY 6 AUGUST
8.15PM

Paul Gross writes and lectures on Israeli and global politics. His writing can be found in a number of publications in Israel, the UK, and the US; and he has appeared as a political commentator on Israeli English-language news channels. In the months before 7 October, he was involved in the mass protests against the government, as one of the leaders of the "Olim for Democracy" movement.

Paul moved to Israel from the UK in 2007 after working for the Home Office on legislation tackling religious discrimination, and for the Embassy of Israel in London as the Ambassador's speechwriter. He has a Masters in Middle East Politics from the School of Oriental & African Studies (SOAS).
