The John Piper Tapestry

The John Piper tapestry was influenced by the spice trade of early Grocers. There is a suggestion of large pods bursting open and a reflection of spices in the shapes and colours used.

PRIVATE ROOMS

Informal and Private

Included with the exclusive hire are three additional syndicate rooms designed to support meetings, VIP hosting, or for use as an event office.

The Pitt Library

Named after William Pitt the Younger, an Honorary Member of the Company; The Pitt Library is located on the ground floor and accommodates up to 14 people boardroom style.

The room provides a perfect base for event organisers, with available amenities including a pull down or plasma screen, conference telephone facilities and personal butler service.

The Committee and Sitting Rooms

Conveniently located on the third floor and away from the hustle and bustle of your event, bespoke butler service ensures all your needs are met with efficiency and professionalism.

The Committee Room seats up to 14 people around a boardroom table, with The Sitting Room which accommodates up to 4 people is ideal to be used as a green room for VIPs, interviews and filming.

OUR HERITAGE & CHARITABLE GIVING

History

The foundations of the Company can be traced back to the Pepperers, who established a Fellowship in 1345, although they were active in London from at least 1180. The Fellowship was entrusted with the duty of preventing the adulteration of spices and drugs, as well as with the charge of the King's Beam, which weighed the bulk merchandise in which they dealt. By at least 1373 the Fellowship was known as the Company of Grocers. The name Grocer probably derives from the Latin, grossarius, one who buys and sells in the gross, in other words, a wholesale merchant in spices and foreign produce.

The Bank of England's Landlords

In 1694, the newly established Bank of England took up residence at Grocers' Hall. It continued to be the Company's tenant until 1734. The current Bank of England is built on what was once part of the Hall's surrounding gardens.

The Grocers' Charity

The Worshipful Company of Grocers: "A nursery of charities and a seminary of good citizens"

Coined by the Grocers' Clerk in 1682, this phrase continues to reflect the spirit and values of the Company today. While the language may be dated, its meaning remains deeply relevant: we are a community of like-minded philanthropists committed to supporting charities across the UK.

Promoting charitable giving and fostering good citizenship are as central to the Company's purpose today as they have been throughout its long history. Through collective efforts, we continue to uphold a tradition of generosity and positive impact.
