Company Background

Artichoke was founded in 2005 to bring The Sultan's Elephant by Royale de Luxe to central London. For the first time, streets normally reserved for state occasions or sporting events were taken over by art. The Elephant changed the landscape for outdoor art forever and catapulted Artichoke into the public eye.

The company has continued to work with artists ever since, with the aim of producing unique, large-scale experiences that appeal to the widest possible audience. We don't believe the arts should only take place behind the closed doors of theatres, concert halls or galleries. Instead, you will find our events in the street, public squares, along the coast or in the countryside.

Overview of the Role

Artichoke is seeking an Executive Assistant to join our Production team. This is a dual role providing executive assistance and coordination for the Artistic Director (60%) as well as the wider Production team (40%). It is a detail-focussed position requiring excellent organisation, clear communication and the ability to manage a varied and busy list of tasks.

The postholder will manage the Artistic Director's diary, meetings, travel, and occasional correspondence. They will also provide general administrative support to the wider Production team through coordinating team meetings, taking notes and actions during meetings, and organising artist travel and accommodation.

How to Apply

1. Read the information in the Job Description & Person Specification on the following pages.
2. Fill out our application form. Ensure you give specific examples to support your claims in the personal statement.

Application deadline: 10am, Monday 2 March 2026

Interview dates: First-round interviews to take place in person Wednesday 11 and Thursday 12 March. Second-round interviews to take place in person w/c Monday 16 March. Both rounds of interviews will be held at Artichoke's office in London (E1 6AB). Interview questions will be shared with candidates in advance.

Start date: Immediate start, depending on the notice period

Artichoke is an Equal Opportunities and Disability Confident Committed employer. We are committed to equality and diversity within our workforce and encourage applications from People of Colour, d/Deaf and disabled people, and those from underrepresented backgrounds. Positive action may be used in the recruitment process to select a candidate from a group that is disadvantaged or underrepresented in our workforce if the candidates in question are of equal merit.
