Set on the ever-popular Andrew Lane in High Lane, this impressive detached bungalow offers a wonderful blend of space, style and flexibility, ideal for anyone looking for a home that feels both welcoming and effortlessly practical. With a generous layout arranged over two floors and entered on the ground floor, it's a property that adapts beautifully to different stages of life, whether you're seeking room to grow, space to host, or simply a home that makes day-to-day living feel easy. Also boasting a spacious conservatory with planning for conversion into an annexe.

At the heart of the house is the open plan family dining kitchen, designed for real living. A separate utility room keeps the essentials tucked away, helping the main living areas stay uncluttered and calm.

Two reception rooms provide the versatility that makes a house feel truly personal. One can be your cosy retreat for quieter evenings, while the other lends itself perfectly to entertaining, or even a dedicated space for hobbies or working from home. The home offers three comfortable bedrooms and, importantly, two bathrooms with an additional W.C upstairs, bringing a sense of ease to busy mornings and making overnight guests feel genuinely looked after.

Outside, gardens to the front and rear create lovely options for outdoor living, A multi vehicle driveway adds everyday convenience, while uPVC double glazing and gas central heating help keep the home comfortable throughout the year.

The location is a real highlight, with High Lane being a sought after setting that balances a neighbourhood feel with excellent accessibility. Supermarkets, schools, leisure facilities and healthcare are all within easy reach, and rail links nearby make commuting and wider travel straightforward. For those who travel further afield, Manchester Airport is accessible from the area, offering useful national and international connections.

A freehold home with Council Tax Banding E and an EPC Rating of D. If you're looking for a detached bungalow that feels special the moment you arrive, with flexible living space, generous parking and a location you'll be proud to call home, this property is well worth viewing.
